BTC classes help farm youths emerge into high tech age

MONROE — Students in Dustin Williams' Blackhawk Technical College class seem as comfortable with technology as they'd be leading a farm animal 'round a show ring.

Genomic advantages in improving heritable traits in livestock. Robotic milking, feeding, even automated harvesting of fields. Williams' students research and talk at ease about all sorts of technological changes.

Yet that facility the students seem to have is no accident. It comes thanks to a course called "Emerging Agriculture Technologies" and a one-year Agri-business Specialist technical diploma program that Williams has helped develop since 2008.

"I started this program with five students the first year, and I've had as many as 19 students," Williams said. "They've come from Lake Geneva, Harvard, Ill., Whitewater, Platteville, as well as from all around Rock and Green counties.

"We have 11 this year. They started in August, and they will be done and receive their diploma in May. It's short; they get a lot of hands-on technological knowledge and experience, and a good number find employment upon completion," Williams said.

"This program is really agronomy-based for the jobs out there, but we fit it to the interests of the students as they develop."

SNAP, farm records and financial management tools, business management tools, SST Summit, crop management planning," Williams said, "DeLong's, FS, Landmark - all use these programs.

Emphasis on connecting the classes and the students to the real world pays off.

"I've had companies comment that if our students are not more prepared, they're as prepared as the graduates they've seen in interviews from 4-year college and university programs," Williams said.

Williams is working toward developing BTC's present one-year diploma program into a 2-year associate's degree called Agribusiness/Science and Technology.

He hopes that dream will become a reality, possibly even as soon as fall 2016. If it does, the program would extend BTC's already strong ability to help students in a dozen areas of study to achieve general education requirements at a third the cost before transferring to 4-year degree programs.

Most students presently in Williams' classes are very focused on transferring to universities or colleges after meeting general education requirements and getting a lot of good, practical training at BTC.

Despite many challenges - rising production, equipment, land, input costs - deterring many rural young people from entering agriculture, Williams' students seem enthusiastically bent on emerging from darkness across the farming landscape into the vocational light.

"My agribusiness classes at Blackhawk are based mostly on precision agriculture and what technology can do for you by efficiency and sustainability," said Travis Radzvilowicz, 19, of rural Browntown.

"They teach us that technology is not something to be afraid of but something to strive for," he said.

"I'm not afraid to look into GPS to plant, spray, harvest, even to make hay. It's very exciting to learn. "Dusty's really a phenomenal ag teacher; he honestly belongs at a big university. When he's into his classes, it makes us into it more and more. I plan on farming till the day I die."

Brianna Sheehan, who went to high school in Orfordville and grew up very active in 4-H in a family of six children, agrees that Williams and his subject matter can have a big and positive impact on students who want to farm for a living.

"Dusty does a good job at teaching us in ways that let us see the real world application," she said. "There is a lot of really awesome technology you can learn and use on your farm that you probably wouldn't have known about without taking this class."

Karina Rosheisen, whose family farms south of Brodhead in Avon Township, also likes the picture her BTC classes have given her into the future of agriculture.

She started out at age 12 driving a tractor pulling a grain wagon at harvest, and doing her homework in the tractor cab as she waited for the combine to come back round the field.

With a passion for crops and a strong desire to farm, BTC's courses in the agribusiness specialist program, with strong technical and practical focus, seem to be orienting her path to those goals.

"I'd definitely encourage people interested in agriculture careers to look into Emerging Agriculture Technology," Rosheisen said. "You learn a lot about what the future of agriculture looks like."

Blackhawk Technical College has articulation agreements with many public and private colleges that secure transfer of credits students achieve at its campuses in Green and Rock counties.

"The Monroe campus is repositioning to become a transfer hub," said its new director Matt Urban.

"We also have agreements with high schools that allow dual credit articulation. Students can attain a high school diploma and progress toward a college degree at the same time," Urban said.

"We're making it possible for students who couldn't have afforded a higher education without stepping stones that make it more attainable."

Flexibility and incremental courses of study in a technical college setting, for instance, allow students to progress from high school through a 2-year program and transfer on to a 4-year school.

However, they also allow non-traditional students to "job in and job out," as they make themselves more employable and increase income with a 1-year certificate or diploma, work for a time and return for more study, which leads again to increased employability.

Blackhawk Technical College, where students average 28 years of age, Urban said, can help students slowly immerse themselves into a vocation at the same time it accommodates realities of living and individual wherewithal to meet schooling costs.

Juda voters approve slight decrease in school budget

JUDA — Voters at the annual meeting of the Juda School District approved an estimated mill rate for 2015-2016 of $12.17. This is down from the 2014-2015 rate of $12.69.

The total amount to be levied is down $26,259 from the prior year.

In 2014-2015 the amount was $1,291,853 versus $1,265,594 to be levied in the 2015-2016 school year.

Overall the expected revenues are up $64,374 from prior year and the projected expenses are down $31,182.

The district will use $136,670 from their fund balance to balance the budget in the coming year. The project fund balance at the end of the year is projected at $394,484 still within the state guidelines.

Due to decreases in funding for public education over the past years, the district has had to use $323,173 from the fund balance to balance the budget.

Superintendent Traci Davis reminded those present of the planned referendum next spring. The planned referendum will include a question to borrow money for capital items such as roof repair, technology and building upgrades.

The second question would authorize the district to tax above the revenue limits for operational items.

Residents of the district are invited to speak to her and board members with any questions they may have.

In other action the voters:

Approved the board salaries of $100 for the President, $100 for the Clerk, $60 for the Vice President, regular meetings of $35 per member, special meetings of $25 per member and $30 per member for the annual meeting.

Approved the 2014/2015 school fees and breakfast/lunch fees.

Designated the Sugar River Bank of Juda as the official place of depository.

Authorized the board to furnish textbooks at the fees the board designates.

Authorized the board to furnish school lunches at the fees the board designates.

Authorized the board to engage Boardman and Clark as legal counsel as needed.

Approved the district to provide transportation services to students.

Set the date for next year's 2016 annual meeting. It will be held on Oct. 24, 2016, at 7 p.m. in the technology room at the school.

SENIOR OF THE WEEK

The Senior of the Week is Derrick Byrne. After graduation Derrick plans to attend UW-Madison to major in nursing and then attend a medical school.

His favorite class studies anatomy and physiology because it allows him to use what he learned this summer in his Certified Nursing Assistant class.

Derrick's greatest inspiration is Stephen Hawking because he is severely disabled, but he is still able to have a great mind in today's society. Derrick would like to travel to Spain one day because he thinks the culture is very interesting, and he would also like to run with the bulls.

CHILI/GRILLED CHEESE SUPPER

Juda Booster Club will be hosting a Chili and Grilled Cheese Supper on Thursday, Nov. 12. The supper will be held from 4:30 to 7 p.m. The cost of the meal is $6 for adults (10 years and older) and $3 for children (under 10 years of age).

REFERENDUM UPDATE

Again, Juda School District is proposing two different questions for the spring referendum. Projects that are being considered include remodeling the current entrance to make it more secure, removing asbestos in the elementary and high school classrooms and remodeling those rooms, relocating the library to provide a more modern environment with adequate space and technology, remodeling the reading lab and special education rooms, remodeling the under-utilized middle school locker rooms into viable learning spaces, updating technology including the clocks, bells, and phone system, improving the bus garage, park, and parking lots, and making renovations to meet code and ADA requirements.

SPANISH CLUB

Members went to La Iguana today, Wednesday, Oct. 28, to see Carlos Olmedo's Day of the Dead Altar. They also were able to eat lunch while they were there. They tried many authentic foods and drinks that are common during the Day of the Dead celebration.

Spanish Club would like to thank La Iguana for their hospitality and for their help during the Monticello Haunticello Event.

They would also like to thank Monticello's Spanish Club and Art Club for letting the Juda Spanish Club partner up for this event.

CROSS COUNTRY

The sectional cross country meet was held in Monroe on Friday, Oct. 23. The boys placed 9th and the girls placed 4th. The awards banquet will be held Monday, Nov. 9, at 7 p.m. at the Brodhead High School.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

Juda FFA members will be selling fruit soon in their annual benefit sale. Contact a student member through the high school advisor.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Juda High School Student Council would like to thank everyone that participated and helped out with the annual Zombie Run. The race went well and will continue again next year! Next, the student council will be focusing on matters such as blood drives and the Student Council Conference in Black Hawk School District.

VOLLEYBALL

The Juda JV and Varsity Volleyball Teams celebrated an accomplished season last Monday, Oct. 26, at their end-of-the-season banquet. Each member of the JV and varsity teams was awarded a certificate of accomplishment for hard work during the season.

Zoe Rathsack was awarded Most Improved for the JV team, and Robyn Wahl was awarded Most Improved for the varsity. Sara Jordan and Alexis Goecks earned All-Conference this season. Megan Powers, Megan Polansky, Robyn Wahl, Chelsea Burkhalter, Alexis Goecks, and Sara Jordan were all named captains.

MUSIC

They are happy with their shirt design and excited to ride in the van instead of the bus to Platteville. Students will return to Juda around 6 p.m.

SCIENCE

The human body class is currently learning about cells. Students will soon go on to learn about tissues in the body. Learning about tissues will help them to better understand the different functions that occur in the body.

Albany students to hold benefit for Africa

By Hailey Holst

ALBANY — Community Middle School is holding a charity event tomorrow night, Thursday, Nov. 5.

The benefit will be held from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria and elementary school gym.

This event is to help people in need in Africa.

So far, the fifth- and sixth-graders involved have been researching Africa in science, humanity and reading classes.

Students have also made the items that will be sold in the auction.

The fifth- and sixth-graders have put the charity event together themselves with a small amount of help from Mr. Campbell and Mr. Oellerich.

The fifth- and sixth-graders also read a book on Africa, which is a true story called "A Long Walk to Water."

The students want to thank both Mr. Doescher and Ms. Machtan because they picked out the book for them to read.

Charities to which the students are giving money raised in the benefit are Water for Sudan Inc. and the Himalayan Institute.

Water for Sudan uses the money it receives to help people in Africa get access to clean drinking water.

The Himalayan Institute helps people in areas of Africa to learn about better hygiene; it also builds libraries and clinics.

Money the Albany students raise in this event will be split between these two charities. The public is asked to come out on Nov. 5 to help support their efforts.

Program helps Albany students apply to college

ALBANY — High School's seniors received hands-on assistance applying to college during the school's Wisconsin Students Go 2 College (WSG2C) event.

The assistance took place last Wednesday, Oct. 28., and 14 seniors participated.

The college application event was held in the school's computer lab.

The Albany seniors submitted 24 college applications with the help of volunteers.

Assisting the students were teachers, a board member, and an admission representative from a local college.

Students and staff across the district supported the event by wearing college t-shirts or sweatshirts during the day.

Teachers and staff members advertised in the month prior where they attended college and what degree they got by hanging banners on their classroom doors and offices.

Albany High School Counselor Mitch Heinemeyer called the event a huge success, with great feedback from the students who participated.

Additional information about the WSG2C program can be found online at the WSG2C's website.

For more information about Albany's college application program, contact Heinemeyer at 862-3135 or by email at mitch.heinemeyer@albany.k12.wi.us

First Center Floral and Garden keeps serving area in winter

By Tony Ends
Editor

BRODHEAD — Motorists winding their way along State Highway 11 through the city may think First Center Floral and Garden closed over winter.

Yet inside the former filling station, Randy Menzel and his staff are putting together floral arrangements and gifts for all occasions, year-round.

Superb weather lingering into November still makes it possible to plant remaining shrubs and trees left outside Menzel's shop. And heading into winter, this shouldn't present a problem to perennial plantings.

"All of the sugar's gone back to the roots of shrubs and trees in the fall," Menzel said in a late October interview. "That makes the plant over-winter well.

"It's important to get it mulched good around the plant, to protect the roots from freezing. You should also stake the plant the first year to keep wind from disrupting the ability of its roots to establish in the soil, and you should water the tree once a week until the ground freezes," Menzel said.

"I try to buy all hearty trees and shrubs, at least Zone 4 in climate rating. We have maybe 15 trees left, possibly 60 shrubs."

Menzel may have only had First Center Floral and Garden open in its present location about a year, but he speaks with much experience.

Previously, he operated Sun Flair at the other end of Brodhead from 1995 to 2000, a business that included a nursery where he planted and tended thousands of trees on more than 3 acres.

In the years since up until now, Menzel was working in the grain business.

The long drive over to Belmont didn't suit him, and he returned to a business he enjoys, close to his Brodhead home.

Brodhead Floral and Garden has been running a discount on its trees and shrubs, concrete benches and pots, too.

Perennials are sourced mostly from Minnesota and Wisconsin nurseries and shipped about 9 times a year to the First Center location as demand and available display space permit.

"I've had a lot of people say we should expand scale, but I'd rather remain a neighborhood flower shop," Menzel said.

Store hours for the floral business remain the same in winter, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday; 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday.

First Center Floral and Garden is open April 15 through June 15, seven days a week for spring planting season in the garden center. Sunday deliveries are limited to funeral homes in Brodhead. To help assure on-time delivery during the busy holiday season, Menzel recommends people place orders at least 1 day prior to major holidays, such as Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Valentine's Day, Easter, Mother's Day, Memorial Day, Father's Day, the 4th of July and Labor Day. The Brodhead shop is always closed on Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Easter, Father's Day, and Independence Day.

The shop serves Albany, Orfordville, and Juda, in addition to Brodhead.

It makes deliveries to Monroe Clinics and Hospital, funeral homes, and senior care facilities in Monroe, Footville, and Durand, Ill. are also available with advance notice.

Citizens seek study of Green County geology

MONROE — A Green County citizens group has requested that the Land and Water Conservation Committee consider asking UW-Extension to undertake an in-depth geological and water study in Green County.

The group, called Green County Defending our Farmland, believes this study will help the committee act responsibly.

Mapping the county's geology will help the committee make deliberations with backing of solid data in permitting future concentrated animal feeding operations and large industries in the county, the group says.

Members of the group also believe this type of study would take an important step toward protecting the county's water, family farms and soils.

Undertaking such a study in Green County would not likely have a direct effect on the proposed "Pinnacle Dairy," the group said in a statement on the upcoming meeting.

It would, however, inform future industrial farm decisions, the group stated.

A hydro geologist told Green County residents in a presentation to the Land Conservation committee last month that such a study typically takes several years.

In the Thursday, Nov. 5 meeting, tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. in Monroe, there will be an update on the 5,000-dairy cow Pinnacle Dairy livestock facility siting application.

The Tuls family of Nebraska and Rock County, Wis., which already milks 15,000 cows across three locations, has submitted that application.

Tomorrow's meeting is in the Land and Water Conservation offices in Monroe.

58-year-old Albany man dies in crash

EDGERTON — Rock County Sheriff's office, Edgerton police, fire and EMS, and MD1 responded to the 8000 block of North County Highway H for a single-vehicle traffic crash around 7:20 p.m. Sunday.

Responders found a 1995 Chevrolet pickup in the ditch of the northbound lane against a culvert. Inside was a lone occupant, a 58-year-old man from Albany.

Investigation showed the pickup was northbound on N County Trunk H and entered the northbound shoulder and then the ditch at a low rate of speed.

The pickup came to rest when the passenger's side was braced by a culvert.

Life-saving measures were attempted but unsuccessful, according to a Rock County Sheriff's release.

Rock County Medical Examiner's Office responded and pronounced the traffic accident victim deceased. Authorities are withholding his name pending notification of next of kin.

The driver of the vehicle was not wearing a seatbelt at the time of the crash. Other factors are still under investigation.

Veterans Memorial Service at United Methodist Church

All veterans, their families and friends of those veterans who've been lost in the past year are invited to join the Green County Legion Posts as they call the roll for departed comrades at this service.

Juda voters hold line on school budget in annual meeting

JUDA — Voters at the annual meeting of Juda School District this month approved an estimated mill rate for 2015-2016 of $12.17.

This is down from the 2014-2015 rate of $12.69. The total amount to be levied is down $26,259 from the prior year.

In 2014-2015 the amount levied was $1,291,853, versus $1,265,594 to be levied in the 2015-2016 school year.

Overall the expected revenues are up $64,374 from prior year and the projected expenses are down $31,182.

The district will use $136,670 from its fund balance to balance the budget in the coming year.

The project fund balance at the end of the year is projected to be $394,484, still within the state guidelines.

Due to decreases in funding for public education over the past years, the district has had to use $323,173 from the fund balance to balance the budget.

Superintendent Traci Davis reminded those present at the annual meeting of the planned referendum next spring.

The anticipated referendum includes a question as to whether the district should borrow money for capital improvements, such as roof repair, technology and building upgrades.

A second question would authorize the district to tax above the revenue limits for operational items.

Davis and Juda's board members have invited residents of the school district to speak to proposed referendum questions and pose any questions they may have of their own about the district's needs.

In other action the voters:

Approved the school board salaries of $100 for the President, $100 for the Clerk, $60 for the Vice President, regular meetings of $35 per member, special meetings of $25 per member and $30 per member for the annual meeting.

Approved the 2014/2015 school fees and breakfast/lunch fees.

Designated the Sugar River Bank of Juda as the official place of depository for the school district.

Authorized the board to furnish textbooks at the fees the board designates.

Authorized the board to furnish school lunches at the fees the board designates.

Authorized the board to engage Boardman and Clark as legal counsel as needed.

Gave the district permission to provide transportation services to students.

Set the date for the 2016 annual meeting to be held on Oct. 24, 2016 at 7 p.m. in the Technology Room at the school.

Film champions women veterans in agriculture

MONROE — Inspiring stories of women veterans returning home and healing wounds of war through farming will be showcased on Veterans Day.

"Terra Firma: A Film about Women, War and Healing" will be shown in four screenings at public libraries around Wisconsin on Nov. 11.

Monroe and Argyle public libraries, with others in Stevens Point and Ogema, will host screenings of the award-winning film.

The Rural Women's Project of the Midwest Organic and Sustainable Education Service (MOSES) and the Wisconsin Farmers Union have organized the showings with the local libraries.

All screenings start at 6 p.m. All are free and open to the public, followed with discussion.

More than 280,000 women have been sent to the Middle East to serve in the War on Terror since 2001.

Many have returned home with the same post traumatic stress disease that afflicts military servicemen. "Terra Firma" weaves together the stories of three women veterans who were among the first to deploy, serving in Afghanistan, Kuwait and Iraq.

After years of struggle, each has found ways to heal the hidden wounds of war through farming.

The film follows these women as they go about their daily lives, reflecting on their time spent in the military, the impact of the war on their lives and their newfound peace of mind.

Each has found that farming gives them purpose and a new way to serve their country by growing food for their communities.

"One of the driving forces behind our work is the fact that America needs more farmers. We like to champion this through 'solutions style' films around agriculture," stated producer and co-director Christine Anthony, in a release about the film.

Anthony's husband and co-director, Owen Masterson shared this perspective in making "Terra Firma," which means "solid ground."

"Terra Firma is not another 'messed up' veterans' movie," Masterson stated in the same release.

"It is a sensitive, intimate look at three women who joined the service in the mid 90s in order to improve their lives, ended up as support soldiers in a battle zone, returned home with PTSD and eventually found healing through farming."

Since its release in 2014, the film has been named Best of the Fest at the Colorado Film Festival and received the Rome International Film Festival's Jury Award.

"Our hope in organizing these local screenings on Veterans Day is that the stories of these three women, as well as those of other local veterans who are welcome to come and share their stories, will inspire and empower others to understand the trauma of war and the healing that connecting with the soil and our farming heritage provide," said Lisa Kivirist.

Kivirist of Browntown is coordinating the MOSES

Rural Women's Project. The project provides resources and training for women of all backgrounds interested in launching organic farms and food businesses.

The film is one-hour long. No reservation needed.

Monroe Public Library is at 625 16th Ave. Argyle Public Library is at 401 E. Milwaukee. ## REDUCE STROKE RISK

According to a new analysis of 20 separate studies involving 760,000 people, those who consumed the most produce had a 20% lower risk of stroke compared to those who ate the least. Benefits rose in proportion to the amount of fruits and vegetables eaten. Stroke risk dropped by 32% for every 7 oz. per day of fruit and 11% for every 7 oz. per day of vegetables. Citrus fruits, leafy vegetables, apples and pears were specifically linked to reduce stroke risk. Researchers say eating more fruits and vegetables may help reduce blood pressure, cholesterol, weight and other risk factors.

IF YOU CARE, DON'T SHARE campaign

BRODHEAD — Better Brodhead is using the month of November to raise awareness about prescription drug abuse. Posters and banners will be put up around town, and information will be available at Parent Teacher conferences. Prescription drug misuse is a growing national problem. Prescription drugs are misused and abused more often than any other drug, except marijuana and alcohol. If medication is taken in a way that is different from what the doctor prescribed, it is considered abuse. Prescription drug abuse includes: Taking a medication that was prescribed for someone else; taking a larger dose than one is supposed to take; taking the medicine in a different way than one is supposed to take (for instance, by crushing tablets and snorting or injecting them); using the medicine for another purpose, such as getting high. In Green County, 8 percent of high school seniors reported taking prescription drugs without a doctor's prescription in the past 30 days. Abusing some prescription drugs can lead to addiction. Every medicine has some risk of side effects. Doctors take this into account when prescribing medicines. People who abuse these drugs may not understand the risks. Prescription drug abuse is a growing trend that is fueled both by misperceptions about prescription drug safety and increasing availability of such medications. Currently, 4 out of 5 new heroin users reportedly started out by taking prescription pain killers. Unused medicine can be disposed of 24 hours a day, seven days a week, at the drug drop box in the lobby of the Brodhead Police Department. The vision of Better Brodhead is a community where everyone is valued and safe. Its mission is to engage and support the community in positive efforts with youth that reduce locally the impact of broad national social trends, such as bullying, dating violence, and youth substance use. ## Sanborn Maps featured at Nov. 7 GCGS meeting

MONROE – Sanborn Insurance Maps will be the topic of the Saturday, Nov. 7 Green County Genealogical Society. Wisconsin

Historical Society staff developed the webinar that will be shown. The Sanborn Insurance Maps can be used to learn about the buildings in which ancestors lived, worked and worshiped. The program is intended to provide instruction as to how to access this window into the past. The Green County Genealogical Society meeting will be held in the second floor meeting room of the Monroe Public Library at 10 a.m., Saturday, Nov. 7. Visitors are welcome, and there is no cost to attend. Call Sharon at 815-868-2416, or Donna, 608-921-1537, if you have questions.

Program treats Addams' vital vision for today

FREEPORT — The Highland Community College Global Task Force will host a program titled "Jane Addams: Why her vision is vital today" at 7 p.m. tomorrow on Thursday, Nov. 5, in the Student/Conference Center, Room H201.

A well-known native of northwest Illinois, Addams was born in Cedarville before going on to become the co-founder of the Hull House, the nation's most influential settlement house.

A tireless advocate for social reform, Addams founded the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and was co-founder of National Child Labor Committee, the American Civil Liberties Union, the NAACP, and the Immigrant's Protective League. She was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1931.

Judy Whipps, a professor of liberal studies and philosophy at Grand Valley State University in Michigan, will present the program. She has published a four volume edited set of Addams's writings, as well as many articles on Addams.

She established the "Jane Addams' Prize," which the society awards for the Advancement of American Philosophy. Addams' work has inspired Whipps' thinking about education, and social change.

The program will focus on Jane Addams' vision, which was shaped during a time when democracy was in crisis. Whipps will speak of how deep divisions between the rich and the poor, the fight for equal rights, the turmoil around immigration and working conditions, and conflicts arising from labor movement were all threatening national stability.

Even though Addams was 60 years old before she was able to vote, her activism changed the landscape of these social and political issues. Addams' aspirations for democracy, and her trust in the pragmatist method of working with others are models that all of us, including politicians, can still learn from today.

The event is free and open to the public. For more information regarding this event, contact Kay Ostberg at kay.ostberg@highland.edu or 815.599.3533.
