County Board will begin budget talk at Oct. meeting

By Erica Roth
GREEN COUNTY BOARD SUPERVISOR

The October meeting for the Green County Board will be held on the third Tuesday, Oct. 17, at 7 p.m. in the County Board room on the second floor of the Historic Courthouse on the square in Monroe.

The proposed 2018 budget will be distributed to the board at that time so it can be looked over and be voted on at the November County Board meeting.

If you have any questions or concerns about the county budget, and where your tax dollars are going, contact your County Board Supervisor. My experience with the budget is that our tax dollars are used efficiently and effectively, with a conscientious eye on the bottom line.

When the county-wide CAFO moratorium passed in August, a study group was formed to study the effects of CAFOs. The members of the study group were announced at the September County Board meeting, and they are getting started on their work.

The Livestock Facility Study Group will be meeting Wednesday, Sept. 27 at 12:30 p.m. at the Green County Justice Center, in multipurpose room 1.

According to the agenda they will be discussing the scope, process and purpose of the study group, as well as open meeting laws, meeting times, ground rules and presentation topics.

There will be a presentation by DATCP (Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade, and Consumer Protection) at this meeting. The meeting is open to the public, and you are welcome to attend.

Several other committees are meeting over the next couple of weeks. You can find the schedule and agendas on the Green County site at www.co.green.wi.gov.

The Wisconsin DNR held a public hearing regarding the issuance of a WPDES permit (Wisconsin Pollutant Discharge Elimination System) to the Tuls/Bader project of Pinnacle Dairy.

The hearing was held Friday September 15 and there was quite a large turn out at the Albany Lions Club where it was held. The public was encouraged to comment, and for those who were unable to attend or did not want to speak at the hearing, written comments were being accepted until Friday, Sept. 22.

Written comments were to be entered into the meeting record and weighed as heavily as oral comments. A range of views was expressed at the hearing, but the majority of those were concerned with the safety of our water especially if the permit is granted. The DNR said they are hoping to have a decision about the permit by the beginning of October.

Thank you for contacting me with county board questions. If you have questions or concerns about the county please contact your county board supervisor. You can find out who your representative is and how to contact them by visiting the Green County site: www.co.green.wi.gov. I represent District 24 and can be reached at EricaRothGreenCountyBoard@gmail.com or 608-371-9074.

A good deed, bound for Houston

Janet Cook spearheaded a collection taken up for victims of Hurricane Harvey in Houston, Tex. Throughout September. Collections were taken at Brodhead storage and Fib's North, and from there were placed in a pod in Lake Geneva, Wis., where they will head south to a church outside of Houston.

Relief for Harvey victims

This U-Haul was practically packed to the gills with donations from the community bound for Houston to aid victims of Hurricane Harvey.

Dr. Wilmer Pautz of Altoona, Wisconsin recently marked his 90th birthday. To celebrate this special event of September 26, his relatives hosted dinners in Green Bay and Beloit.

In the 1950s Dr. Pautz was a teacher in the area high schools of Brooklyn, Juda and Monroe. At Juda he also served as the district administrator. After receiving his doctorate, he joined, in sequence, the faculties of Northern Illinois University, Dekalb, the American Junior High School, Frankfurt, Germany and the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire. As a professor of education at UW-EC, he completed a 30-year tenure preparing students to become teachers.

He and his wife, the former Barbara Garwig of Brodhead and Avon Township, reside in Knollwood Village, a retirement community in Altoona. (Vern Barber photo)

Bethlehem Lutheran offering children's ministry

Bethlehem Lutheran's continuing weekly ministry called "Faith Night" begins on Wednesday, Sept 27. Faith Night runs from 5:30 to 7 p.m. each Wednesday night.

What is Faith Night? One way to think of it is food, fellowship, worship, learning, and service in Jesus' name. Another way to think of it is a smaller version of VBS (vacation bible school) offered each Wednesday.

We begin each Wednesday by offering a simple, kid-friendly meal. Families are encouraged to come and eat together. Following our meal, we will gather for worship, songs, prayer, and a bible story. We will also have time for smaller groups in which the kids will pray together and engage in a craft, game, service project, and/or other hands-on activity related to the bible story.

Children through sixth grade are welcome to join. We will continue to offer a shorter session for our toddlers to 4K children. This group will meet until 6:30.

Parents will need to be present with their child. The group will work on some very basic skills, listen to a story, play a game, and practice sharing.

We hope that you will consider joining us on Wednesday nights as we grow in faith and relationship to God, to one another, and to the world.

If you have any questions about our education programs or other ministries of Bethlehem, please contact Pastor Peder at pastor@bethlehembrodhead.org or by calling the church at 897-2341.

Albany High School adds a few new faces

Abigail Bednar

My name is Abigail Bednar. I teach High School English. I have just moved to Fitchburg. I went to Knox College in Illinois - near the quad cities. This will be my 5th year teaching English. I have worked with Gifted/Talented students and taught ESL. I am particularly passionate about 18th century literature and American Literature. I'm from the Midwest originally, and my husband and I wanted to move closer to our family. I was really excited about working at Albany because of the small class sizes and the tight-knit community.

This year I am helping with the Yearbook, and I am also the Forensics Coach. Before this I taught 4 years in Charleston, South Carolina.

Bryce Broughton

My name is Bryce Broughton. I teach Tech. Ed. I grew up in Brodhead and still live in Brodhead with my wife Tiffany and two young children Liam 4 and Charleigh 2. I have been teaching Technology Education for the past 14 years. I chose to teach in Albany because of all of the great people

Rep. Spreitzer: Republican budget is 'rigged'

By Rep. Mark Spreitzer
45TH DISTRICT ASSEMBLY REP.

On September 13th, the Assembly passed the biennial budget. Intra-party fights between the right wing and the far right wing delayed the budget's passage by 2.5 months. Unfortunately, this extra time did not help this budget improve. The budget is rigged against workers, rigged against students, and rigged against Wisconsin families.

I came to Madison to fight for fairness, opportunity, and communities throughout Wisconsin. My Democratic colleagues and I offered amendment after amendment to improve the budget, but our common-sense changes were ignored.

With no room to compromise, it seemed as though partisan politics were more important for those in charge than moving our state forward.

After looking through the budget and considering its implications, I voted against the bill. The major factors influencing my vote were the complete lack of sustainable solutions for Wisconsin's schools, infrastructure, and environment.

Republicans and Governor Walker have taken victory laps on the money this budget puts towards education. However, this investment comes after three consecutive budgets that devastated our public schools and universities through budget cuts.

Although Governor Walker and legislative Republicans claimed they lowered taxes while upholding our educational institutions, in reality they simply shifted the burden. Local residents have been forced to increasingly rely on referenda to keep the lights on and doors open in their children's schools. Increasing funding in this budget does not make up for six years of cuts as costs continue to increase and rural districts face unique challenges.

Wisconsin can do better. Democrats offered a plan to increase aid to every school district, especially rural districts, while still lowering property taxes. Our proposal would also have provided the first increase in special education funding in over a decade. Unfortunately, Republicans rejected our proposal.

Republicans in the legislature also made grand statements about solving our transportation crisis. Our crumbling roads and bridges impact nearly every resident in our state, and I regularly hear from constituents about the hardship our deteriorating infrastructure causes. In fact, the average Wisconsin driver spends $637 a year on car repairs due to the state of our roads. However, once again, Governor Walker and legislative Republicans kicked the can down the road and put hundreds of millions of dollars on the state's credit card without coming up with a real solution.

Wisconsin can do better. This cycle of borrowing, while delaying essential infrastructure projects, is unacceptable. Democrats have repeatedly pushed for sustainable funding, an end to irresponsible borrowing, and an emphasis on improving local infrastructure. These ideas were rejected.

I also voted no because this budget does not adequately protect our natural resources and outdoor heritage. Wisconsin is known for our natural resources and the beauty they offer. Much of our tourism and economic development also depends on preserving our water, air, and land. This budget eliminates a major funding source for Wisconsin forestry, including wildfire control. The budget also "reorganizes" the DNR by eliminating the Bureau of Science Services and concentrating even more power in the Governor's political office.

Wisconsin can do better. Democrats pushed to save scientist and educator positions at the DNR and restore state parks funding, but those efforts were ignored. One of the most essential functions of the DNR will be greatly reduced and our environment will suffer.

In addition, Republicans rejected tax relief for working families in this budget, but favored tax cuts for the rich. Legislative Republicans voted to eliminate the Working Families Tax Credit, which is specifically targeted toward low-income individuals and families. The few hundred families who claim this credit receive an average tax benefit of about $276. To a family making only $15,000 a year, $276 makes an enormous difference in helping to put food on the table. Republicans also rejected a proposed increase to the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), a refundable tax credit that benefits working families with children.

On the other hand, legislative Republicans voted for the elimination of the Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT). The AMT was specifically created to ensure that wealthy individuals who qualify for large tax deductions and exemptions pay at least a minimum amount of income tax. Over half of those who claim the AMT earn over $300,000 per year. This tax break won't help regular Wisconsin families, it will help millionaires and billionaires. Wisconsin deserves better.

While there are certainly items in the budget that I support and that could have passed with strong bipartisan votes, a YES vote on this budget as a whole means supporting an increase in our state's debt, diminishing local control, endangering the long-term health of our environment, and increasing the burden on working families. A NO vote means standing in solidarity with our public schools, hardworking families, and local communities.

I am proud to have stood with all my Democratic colleagues, as well as five brave Republicans, in voting against a budget that is bad for Wisconsin. Wisconsin can do better.

Deer, turkey, goose tagging changes taking effect

The 2017-2019 biennial budget recently signed by Gov. Scott Walker includes changes in deer and turkey tagging that will take effect immediately.

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources is currently implementing changes involving the use of deer and turkey carcass tags and hopes to clarify any confusion the new requirements may cause during the fall hunting seasons now underway.

Deer and turkey

Under the new budget law, deer and turkey carcass tags are not required to be issued with licenses. In addition, validation and attachment of carcass tags is no longer required.

These changes do not affect other species such as bear, bobcat, fisher, otter or sturgeon.

To date, nearly one million deer and turkey carcass tags have been issued for the current fall hunting seasons. The department will honor all previously issued deer and turkey carcass tags as an authorization to hunt deer and turkey within the assigned or designated location.

Customers making additional purchases throughout the remainder of this year's hunting seasons will be issued products that will not include the usual validation and attachment language.

While hunting, customers will still be required to carry proof they are authorized to hunt within the designated location. Hunters will be able to use their DNR issued Conservation Card, a GoWild validated WI driver's license, a GoWild digital file or a paper tag/authorization as proof of compliance.

For the remainder of 2017 seasons, the game registration system will recognize either the previously issued tag number or the harvest authorization number to connect the customer's information from their profile to the zone and season in which the customer is authorized to hunt.

The department will continue to issue carcass tags for deer, however hunters will not be required to validate or attach the carcass tag to the deer. The tag will continue to be issued based upon DMU, zone, land type (private/public), sex of deer and will identify weapon as appropriate.

To minimize impacts to customers for the 2017 fall turkey season now under way, the department will allow the use of previously purchased turkey carcass tags to serve as the new turkey harvest authorization.

Harvested turkey and deer must still be registered under current law. Harvest registration is a critical part of deer and turkey population management. Customers will be asked to enter either their carcass tag number or their turkey harvest authorization number into the Game Registration system to begin the harvest registration process

Canada goose registration

Canada goose hunters are no longer required to report their daily harvest. DNR will be collecting harvest information in the future through the use of waterfowl surveys.

For more information on the changes and how they might affect you during the current and upcoming fall hunting seasons visit dnr.wi.gov.

Hunters reminded that collared deer and coyotes are legal to harvest

This fall, hunters may spot collared or ear-tagged deer or coyote in Southwest Wisconsin and should treat these animals like any others when pursuing game.

Many animals in this area were collared as part of the Southwest Wisconsin Chronic Wasting Disease, Deer and Predator Study - a five-year investigation into deer mortality.

"The most important thing for hunters to know is that collared and tagged deer and coyotes should be treated just like the rest of the animals in the area," said Dan Storm, DNR ungulate research ecologist.

"We've collared a random sample of deer and coyotes, so the collars don't indicate anything about the animals' health or suitability for harvest."

Hunting licensing and normal harvest regulations apply to collared deer as they do to uncollared deer-hunters should make their decision without regard for GPS collars.

Hunters who harvest collared deer should call the number listed on the collar (608-935-1940) so DNR staff can retrieve each collar.

"Collared and tagged deer are absolutely fine to harvest, so if you would otherwise harvest that deer, go ahead and take it. If you would normally let it pass by, do so," said Storm.

Southwest Wisconsin CWD, Deer and Predator Study will help DNR staff learn more about Wisconsin's wildlife

DNR researchers are collaring deer and coyotes in two study areas across Grant, Iowa and Dane counties, with an ultimate goal to comprehensively examine factors that could impact deer survival and deer population growth in southern Wisconsin. Those include CWD, predation, habitat suitability and hunter harvest. The study is part of the Governor's initiative on chronic wasting disease.

"We're collaring deer, coyotes, and bobcats over five years, and these animals will department staff better understand deer mortality and predator densities for the in the region," said Storm.

"Obviously, we know that one of the mortality causes for deer is hunter harvest, so we hope that the collars do not influence a hunters decision as to whether or not to harvest that animal."

Whether you harvest a collared deer or an uncollared deer this season, the DNR asks for hunters' help by having their deer tested for CWD.

The department needs to sample your adult deer to help further understand CWD in your area. Visit dnr.wi.gov and search keywords "CWD sampling" or contact our call center at 1-888-936-7463 to learn more.

For more information regarding the Southwest Wisconsin CWD, Deer and Predator study, search keywords "SW Study."

Green County 4-H hosts free Explore 4-H event

These youngsters are enthusiastic ambassadors for 4-H.

Have you ever been interested in getting involved in 4-H but didn't know how?

Have you ever been curious about the different types of projects available to exhibit at the Green County Fair?

Have you ever wondered how to make a difference in your own community or how to become a stronger leader?

Think 4-H is just for farm kids?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, Green County 4-H has the perfect event for you. Explore 4-H Day will be held on Saturday, Sept. 30 from Noon to 3 p.m. at the Green County Fairgrounds. This is a free open house event where you can quickly and easily learn more about 4-H.

Interested youth and their families will be able to talk with current 4-H members, learn about different 4-H projects, discover how to make a difference in their communities, and get information about how to enroll in 4-H. There will also be a chance to win free prizes.

We will also tackle the common misconception that 4-H is just for farm kids. Last year, well over half of Green County 4-H members lived in cities, towns or rural non-farm areas and exhibited in projects like Drawing & Painting, Home Furnishings, Electricity, and Child Development. 4-H is truly for everyone, no matter your background.

The 4-H program is open to youth in 5 year old Kindergarten through one year past high school. Green County has 18 different clubs to choose from that vary in size, meeting time and location. In order to be eligible to exhibit at the 2018 Green County Fair, 4-H members must be enrolled by November 1, 2017.

For more information about Explore 4-H Day or the Green County 4-H program, please contact Ellen Andrews, Green County 4-H Youth Development Educator, at 608-328-9440 or green.uwex.edu.

'Growing among friends': Checklist for fall garden and landscape Care

By Melinda Myers

You can see and feel the change of seasons. Fall color is starting to appear, pansies, mums and asters are in the garden center and your thoughts are turning to preparing your landscape for winter.

Those in warm climates are switching to winter annuals, while those in colder regions are fortifying their landscapes for the cold winter ahead. No matter where you live, invest some time in preparing your landscape for the change in seasons. Dedicating some time now will pay off with healthier more beautiful plants next spring.

- Continue to mow the lawn high as long as it continues to grow. There's no need to cut it short unless that is the look you prefer.

- Fertilize the grass with a low nitrogen slow release fertilizer like Milorganite. Fall fertilization provides the greatest benefit to your lawn and gives you the best value for the time and money invested.

- Those in cooler regions growing bluegrass, fescue and perennial ryegrass should fertilize around Labor Day when temperatures start to cool. Then make a final application between Halloween and Thanksgiving before the ground freezes.

- Those in warmer climates growing centipede, Bermuda and zoysia should also fertilize around Labor Day. However, be sure to make the last fall application at least one month prior to the average first killing frost.

- Shred leaves as they fall. Leave some on the lawn to add organic matter and nutrients to the soil. As long as you can see the grass blades through the shredded leaves your lawn will be fine. Use the rest of the shredded leaves in your compost pile, as mulch on top of the soil or as a soil amendment. Just dig a two to three inch layer into the top 12 inches of annual or new planting beds. These leaves will break down and add organic matter. By spring the leaves will decompose and the garden bed will be ready to cultivate and plant.

- Plant a few bulbs now for a colorful early spring display. Incorporate compost, aged manure or other organic matter into the planting area. Add a low-nitrogen, slow-release fertilizer at the time of planting. In general, plant bulbs two to three times their vertical diameter deep. Follow specific planting and spacing directions on the package or tag.

- Select animal-resistant bulbs to avoid squirrels digging up the bulbs and deer and rabbits eating the blooms. Daffodils, hyacinths, grape hyacinths and squills are a few to consider. Little Tommys (Crocus tommasinianus) tend to be more squirrel resistant than other crocus varieties.

- Those gardening in mild climates need low chill bulbs that will thrive and flower after a mild winter. Or purchase precooled bulbs for winter planting and spring flowering. Allow disease- and insect-free perennials to stand for winter. This will increase their winter hardiness and your enjoyment. The dried leaves, stems and seedheads provide beauty for you to enjoy, seeds for the birds and overwintering homes for many butterflies and beneficial insects.

- Plant trees, shrubs and perennials. The soil is warm and the air is cool – perfect conditions for planting and establishing trees, shrubs and perennials. And for those lucky enough to garden in warm climates, add a few winter annuals.

- Continue to water the landscape as needed throughout the fall. Be sure to water evergreens and new plantings thoroughly before the ground freezes. No matter where you live or the size of your garden, get outdoors and enjoy the beauty of fall. And be sure to invest a bit of energy now to insure your landscape is ready for the season ahead.

Gardening expert, TV/radio host, author & columnist Melinda Myers has more than 30 years of horticulture experience and has written over 20 gardening books, including "Can't Miss Small Space Gardening," and the "Midwest Gardener's Handbook."

She hosts The Great Courses "How to Grow Anything" dvd series and the nationally syndicated "Melinda's Garden Moment," segments. Myers is also a columnist and contributing editor for Birds & Blooms magazine. Myers' website, www.melindamyers.com, offers gardening videos and tips.

Pet Talk: Consider adopting an older pet

When considering getting a new pet, we often think of bringing home a puppy or kitten. However, adult pets are just as loveable and can sometimes even be a better fit.

Dr. Christine Rutter, clinical assistant professor at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences, explained the advantages of adopting an older animal.

"Adult pets are typically not as motivated to destroy property, such as shoes, blinds, and furniture," Rutter said. "Adult pets are often already housebroken or take to housebreaking quickly, which saves the rugs and carpeting."

In addition, adult pets are less likely to break the bank. Depending on the health status of the adult pet when it is adopted, it is possible that caring for adult pets is less expensive than puppies or kittens.

"Juvenile pets need a series of vaccinations, deworming treatments, and may even need to be spayed or neutered," Rutter said. "Just like people, young animals are also more susceptible to infections and viruses, which can land them in the veterinarian's office. The cost of these services add up." However, older pets also can come with their own challenges. Rutter said it's common for adult pets in shelters to have a range of special needs, from simple fixes to complex treatments.

"It's always important to have a veterinarian evaluate any new pet and perform a routine health screening," Rutter said. "A veterinarian can also assess the approximate age of an adult pet and make recommendations for follow-up intervention and care, if needed."

As you should with any pet, be sure to look for signs of illness at home. Any weight loss, excessive drinking or urination, decreased appetite, pain, or chronic diarrhea or vomiting should be reported to a veterinarian.

While each animal is different, caring for an adult pet may be an easier experience than raising a puppy or kitten. If you are considering adopting a pet, be sure to give an adult pet a chance.

Pet Talk is a service of the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences. Stories can be viewed on the web at vetmed.tamu.edu/pet-talk. Suggestions for future topics may be directed to editor@cvm.tamu.edu.
