Farmer helps secure donation to Juda fire department

Local farmer Larry Kloeping recently directed a $2,500 Bayer Fund America's Farmers Grow Communities donation to Juda Volunteer Fire Department. The department will use the funds for its fire and rescue operations.

The Grow Communities program asks farmers across the country to participate by nominating nonprofit organizations with resources to strengthen their local communities, according to a news release. Last August, farmers entered for the chance to direct a $2,500 Grow Communities donation to a local eligible nonprofit of their choice.

"The COVID-19 pandemic has affected everyone, including those in rural regions, and farmers play a critical role in helping communities overcome challenges, like the ones we're currently facing," said Al Mitchell, Bayer Fund president. "Bayer Fund is proud to work side-by-side with farmers to identify local eligible nonprofit organizations that are able to provide their residents with solutions that leave a lasting impact."

Since 2010, the America's Farmers programs have awarded more than $59 million to community nonprofits, aspiring agriculture students and public schools across rural America.

Local groups garner funding for ag education

The Wisconsin Farm Bureau Foundation's Ag in the Classroom program recently awarded $6,898 to schools and organizations to expand agricultural literacy.

Groups, schools and organizations can apply for up to $500 as part of the Ag in the Classroom's matching grant program to support a project, provided they have a source of matching funds.

Two local programs were among the grant recipients.

Parkview and Brodhead FFA chapters received $500 for their Food for America program.

"Parkview and Brodhead FFA will immerse local elementary students in the agriculture industry," according to a news release. "Food for America will teach fourth-grade students about the many facets of agriculture, specifically where food comes from.

"Students will have the opportunity to visit and tour a local dairy, participate in interactive stations based around different agriculture products grown in Wisconsin and meet local industry leaders."

The Farmers Grow: Food Brings Everyone to the Table virtual scavenger hunt program through the Rock County Farm Bureau also received a $500 grant.

The scavenger hunt "is a free, educational, fun, socially distanced family activity that highlights the importance of Wisconsin agriculture," the release said. "The program uses agricultural literacy focusing on Wisconsin's top 24 agricultural commodities in partnership with local FFA members."

Program participants snap a selfie at each community location and post them to the Rock County Farm Bureau Facebook page.

Farm Bureau's Ag in the Classroom program provides teachers and K-12 students with an understanding of how their food is produced.

"The goal of the program is to help students gain a greater awareness of the role agriculture plays in the economy and society, so that they may become citizens who support wise agricultural policies," the news release said.

Free virtual concert series features Broadway tunes, classic rock

The Monroe Arts Center continues its virtual concert series with concerts available the second weekends of May and June.

To view the free concerts, go online to monroeartscenter.com/performances.

Sharpe Family Singers

The Sharpe Family Singers will take the MAC virtual stage Friday, May 7, through Sunday, May 9.

Broadway performers and producers Ron and Barbara Sharpe first met onstage in the original Broadway production of "Les Miserables," where they played the romantic lead roles of Marius and Cosette. After being married onstage over 1,000 times, they decided to do it for real, according to a MAC news release. Now years later with two grown children, a pair of identical twin boys and three "adopted" family members (the boyfriend, the best friend and the "lovable uncle") this group has formed The Sharpe Family Singers.

"In 'Married to Broadway,' The Sharpe Family Singers share their love of Broadway musicals by performing the big show-stopping numbers that are audience favorites around the world," the release said. "Their repertoire includes songs from new hit Broadway shows like 'Hamilton' and 'Dear Evan Hansen,' blockbuster movies like 'The Greatest Showman,' hits from Disney On Broadway and Broadway's rock 'n roll musicals as well as classic show tunes from 'Phantom,' 'Cats,' 'Evita,' 'Guys and Dolls,'

'West Side Story,' 'Carousel,' 'Fiddler,' 'Les Miserables' and many more."

The Hit Men

From June 11 through June 13, The Hit Men will take viewers back to a time when rock was king.

"Relive rock's greatest hits with The Hit Men — the real guys who performed with legendary artists including members of Foreigner, Journey, Styx, The Hooters, Steely Dan, Cheap Trick, The Rascals, Alan Parsons, 3 Dog Night, Cream, Grand Funk, and The Who," the news release said.

The multimedia concerts will include members of The Hit Men sharing their firsthand experiences and performing classic hits "just the way you remember them," the release said.

In 2019, members of The Hit Men were recognized by the Musicians Hall of Fame and Museum in Nashville with the organization's first-ever Road Warriors Award, given to honor "their years of dedication to the music and the countless miles they have traveled in delivering so many hits throughout the world."

Statewide trail report includes current conditions for hiking and biking

Travel Wisconsin, in partnership with the Office of Outdoor Recreation, recently launched a new Wisconsin Trail Report. The report lists current conditions for hiking and biking trail networks throughout the state as well as basic trail descriptions and links to additional resources.

"For the first time, the new Wisconsin Trail Report brings together a collection of trail networks all across the state and from a range of land managers, including the Wisconsin State Park System, various county and municipal parks, as well as private or nonprofit organizations like nature centers," according to a state news release. "No other resource showcases the vast trail offerings in Wisconsin with current condition reports."

The reports also include brief descriptions of the trail networks to inform users about the total mileage, type of terrain and landscape, facilities available and fees.

Biking trails are categorized as recreational or mountain bike trails and list the surface type.

"Dozens of local reporters keep the 140 hiking and biking reports updated weekly or after major weather events or ongoing construction," the release said. "Reporters are a mix of hiking and biking enthusiasts, members of clubs or friends groups, land managers and destination marketing organizations."

"The Wisconsin Trail Report is a gateway to adventure," said Acting Secretary Anne Sayers. "Outdoor recreation is one of the leading reasons people travel to Wisconsin and this will serve as a great resource to understand the general trail conditions in an area as travelers plan a hiking or biking outing throughout our beautiful state."

The Wisconsin Trail Report lists the current weather forecast for the area, nearby activities, attractions, dining and lodging, as well as photos of the trail network and nearby facilities.

Spring is the best time to get your lawn in shape for a healthy, green growing season.

Take care of your spring lawn for a green summer

As a homeowner, now is the perfect time to start thinking about lawn care again. Spring is your first – and best – opportunity to get your outdoor living space in top shape for the warmer months ahead. The prime time to get your lawn in shape begins whenever the soil starts warming.

To help you get ready for a healthy, lush green lawn this spring, lawn care company TruGreen, shares five things you should do:

Start with a spring cleanup

Spring cleaning isn't just for the inside of your home. Your lawn has collected fallen leaves, sticks and other debris over the winter months. Leaving behind this plant matter can smother the growth of your lawn and leave behind unsightly dead patches on the turf.

A cleanup will give your lawn room to breathe, so it can take in water and sunshine, as well as any fertilizer or weed control treatments.

Clean up the mower

Spring is also time to dust off the lawn mower, fill it with fresh fuel and get your first mow. The first mowing of the season removes dead blades of grass and encourages the lawn to wake from its winter slumber.

Get a step ahead of weed growth

The return of crabgrass is not something to look forward to, however, the good news is, you can get these and other unsightly weeds under control by applying a treatment before they start popping up around your lawn. But keep in mind, it's important to get the timing just right.

"Timing is critical when it comes to applying preventative weed treatments," says Brian Feldman, TruGreen's director of technical operations-north. "Treatment should be applied under very specific soil and temperature conditions. Otherwise, it won't work and you'll end up wasting both product and effort."

To take the guesswork out of weed control, consulting with a lawn care professional can bring you peace of mind and deliver desired results.

Nourish your lawn

Spring presents yet another important window of opportunity to achieve a thick, healthy lawn. After being dormant all winter, it will need a dose of food to help it spring back to life and start growing.

By summer, your turf will be facing many stresses – heat, drought, insects and disease. A light application of fertilizer can help your lawn take full advantage of spring growth and have it at its best.

Don't forget your trees and shrubs. The amount of fertilizer needed varies with the age and where your trees and shrubs are located, so contact a professional for expert treatment.

Set a simple watering schedule

Regular rainfall is optimal for healthy grass. But when the sun is beating down and it's been more than a week since the last rainfall, you'll need to supplement the lack of rain with a sprinkler.

Most lawns will thrive and grow with 1 inch of water per week. To keep track, set a few empty tuna cans around the lawn. When they get full – indicating an inch of water – you can move the sprinkler to a different section.

Trees and shrubs also need some watering TLC; keep them hydrated also, particularly when temperatures start to spike.

Call your local lawn professional and they'll create a plan that's tailor-made for your outdoor living space to get it into great shape this spring.

Should you buy or sell a home in 2021? Here's what to know

While the rollout of the COVID-19 vaccine has left a lot of question marks about the future of the U.S. economy at-large, analysts expect the housing market to remain strong and stable in the coming year.

"Despite the uncertainties of the pandemic, the housing market performed well in the second half of 2020," says Sam Khater, Freddie Mac's chief economist. "Low mortgage rates and the ability to work remotely continued to propel demand for housing, which is reflected in home sales reaching levels not seen in 15 years."

Whether you're a potential homebuyer, a current homeowner or considering selling, here are some key takeaways of Freddie Mac's Quarterly Forecast:

Interest rates likely to stay low

The average 30-year fixed-rate mortgage hit a record low over a dozen times in 2020. The low interest rate environment is projected to continue through 2021, with the 30-year fixed-rate mortgage expected to average below 3 percent.

Low rates are good news for buyers looking to purchase a home, and homeowners looking to reduce their mortgage payment through refinancing.

Home sales to remain high

The demand for housing is expected to remain strong in 2021, creating a favorable market for sellers. Last year, low mortgage rates and the ability to work remotely drove up home sales (the measure of the number of homes sold every month). This year, home sales are expected to ride that wave, averaging 6.5 million for the year.

House prices to grow moderately

In the second half of 2020, the high volume of home sales and low supply of housing drove up house prices. In 2021, house price growth is expected to moderate for the full year.

Refinances to start declining

Low mortgage rates spurred refinance activity in 2020, boosting mortgage originations (the process in which borrowers apply for a home loan) to historic highs. As mortgage rates rise modestly in 2021, refinance activity should start to slow. "While many homeowners took advantage of these low rates in last year, evidence suggests that many lower income homeowners still have the opportunity to strengthen their financial position by refinancing," says Khater.

Amp up your spring cleaning routine with these hacks

Spring is a great time to refresh your home. Whether you're planning a major clean sweep or just giving problem areas a little extra TLC, experts say that a few simple strategies will make the job easier and the fruits of your labor last longer.

"When tackling your spring cleaning, checklists are key. The best thing you can do is to plan ahead and make sure you have everything you need to get the job done, which will save loads of time," said Erin Chase, founder of 5DollarDiners.com and a mother of four. "Second, work room by room until each area is clean. Jumping place to place makes accomplishments take longer and it's harder to see big results."

To make larger spring cleaning tasks easier and keep your house smelling fresh every day, Chase is sharing her top hacks to get the best results from those larger cleaning tasks:

- Create cleaning caddies for every bathroom, the kitchen and garage. Having all of your supplies ready for quick touchups and cleaning saves tons of time.
- "For super fast touchups, I keep a canister of cleaning wipes handy. I prefer naturally derived Art of Green wipes because they seriously cut through scum, and the scents are amazing.

Best of all, they're safe for use around kids and pets and protect sensitive skin," says Chase.

- "Clean" your cleaning supplies. Deodorize your mop by adding 3/4 cup Pine-wale Original to a gallon of water, soak your mop for an hour, scrub and rinse.
- "I switched to Pinalen Original because it is made with real pine oil, which makes it a powerful multi-purpose cleaner. Plus, I love the scent," adds Chase.

- To really disinfect and deep clean non-porous floors, add 1/3 cup of Clorox disinfectant bleach to 1.5 gallons of water and mop or scrub and let dry. You'll be surprised what comes off and how much they'll sparkle.
- To sanitize countertops, kitchen sinks and the outside of appliances, mix 1 tablespoon of bleach with 1 gallon of water and apply. Let stand for at least two minutes and dry.

- To clean baseboards without bending and crawling, rubber band a microfiber cloth over the bristles of a broom. Spray the cloth with your favorite cleaner and scrub. No aching back!
- To make an easy shower door scum remover: mix four parts water to one part fabric softener, spray onto scum, wipe off with a sponge and rinse with warm water.

Spring maintenance checklist details tasks for homeowners

As the weather warms, there are a few maintenance tasks every homeowner should consider completing. Use this checklist as your guide:

Outdoor upkeep

- Wash window exteriors for a better view.
- Clean gutters and downspouts to ensure proper water flow. Neglecting this task for too long can cause rot, mold and damage to your foundation.
- Get your patio or deck in shape for outdoor living — sweep and hose it down, remove patio furnishings from storage, wipe down surfaces and vacuum cushions (or launder them if they're machine washable).
- Inspect lawn equipment and tools for needed maintenance, repair and fuel refills.

- Mow the lawn and trim the edges.
- After the next rainfall, inspect your yard for standing water, which can damage your home and invite mosquitoes. Consider hiring a landscaper to level out an uneven lawn.

HVAC maintenance

- Change HVAC filters at least once each season (ideally monthly). Dirty filters make equipment work harder and cause more wear and tear on equipment. They also increase your energy bill and lessen indoor air quality.
- According to Energy Star, 20 percent to 30 percent of the air that moves through the duct system of a typical home is lost due to leaks, holes and poorly connected ducts. Consider professional duct sealing for improved energy efficiency and lower bills.

- Check to see whether your furnaces and air conditioners bear the ENERGY STAR logo. If not, consider a new unit. A properly-sized and installed ENERGY STAR air conditioner uses up to 20 percent less electricity than older models, and doing so may make you eligible for a federal tax credit.
- Have a technician give your home's cooling system a pre-season tune-up so that everything is running efficiently by the time warmer weather arrives. You know the "personality" of your heating or cooling unit best, so be prepared to provide the technician with important information. No fact is insignificant, as it may help them diagnose and fix a problem.

- Be sure that all HVAC installation and maintenance is performed only by a qualified professional. Read company reviews and ask the contractor if they have technicians certified by North American Technician Excellence. NATE-certified technicians have demonstrated knowledge of today's increasingly sophisticated heating and cooling systems. To find a NATE-certified technician in your area, visit Natex.org.

Safety

- Carbon monoxide, often referred to as the "silent killer," is odorless, colorless and tasteless. Protect your family by changing the batteries on your carbon monoxide detectors and ensuring you have a detector on each level of your home. When changing a furnace filter, make sure the new filter is correctly positioned and the access panel is securely fastened. Have your home's furnace inspected and serviced annually by a NATE-certified technician.

- Likewise, test all the smoke alarms in your home and replace batteries as needed. The National Fire Protection Association recommends smoke alarms on every level of the home, including every sleeping room and outside each separate sleeping area.
